Russian Troops Keep Up Pursuit of the Fleeing Turks in Armenia.

(Associated Press Cable)

London, March 6. — With the French center in the Douaumont sector apparently still holding firm against the desperate assaults of the Crown Prince's armies, the Germans are again turning their attention to the flanks of the first French positions around the stronghold.

Berlin reports the capture of nearly 1,000 Frenchmen during the fighting near Verdun on Saturday and Sunday.

Intense artillery fire in the Woivre region was reported in the Paris night bulletin.

Military commentators recently have laid great stress upon the operations in this sector, holding that the next important drive by the Germans might be extended, with the object of rolling up the French right flank.

Other indications, however, have pointed to the possibility that the Germans were concentrating upon the extreme French left.

The heavy artillery of the Germans is pounding the defenses in this sector.

Meanwhile, the testing of the French strength by furious assaults in the main defenses is continuing.

Correspondents who have been at the front quote French militarymen as declaring that the German achievements so far in the great battle of Verdun have resulted merely in restoring the lines to the positions they occupied at the beginning of 1914, before the French in a series of local attacks began expanding the defensive areas about the fortress.

Indications that the Germans may be planning another offensive move on the western front, are contained in reports from Dutch sources that important troop movements are going on behind the front in Belgium.

From the French front to Asia Minor there have been no events of importance in a military way, so far as official bulletins show.

In Armenia, the Russians report continuing their pursuit of the defeated Turks and the drive southward toward the Tigris.

Unofficial advices are that the British on the way up the Tigris toward Bagdad have been heavily reinforced, and that there has been fighting between the Turks and the British army which is trying to reach Kut-El-Amara.

NOW CLEARING DECKS FOR ACTION IN HOUSE

Rules Committee Formulates Plans for Submission of McLeMore Armed Ship Resolution.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, March 6. — The House Rules Committee today agreed upon and will bring into the House tomorrow a special rule for four hours' debate on the McLeMore resolution, warning Americans off armed ships of the European belligerents.

This action put the much discussed resolution into a parliamentary position, where Administration leaders are confident they can kill it.

While the Rules Committee was meeting, Representative Bailey, of Pennsylvania, telephoned invitations to senators and representatives to lunch with William J. Bryan at 1 o'clock, at a hotel near the Capitol.

About twenty members of Congress were invited, most of whom are strong advocates of a warning resolution. Others were opposed to preparedness.

Majority Leader Kitchin, who shares many of Mr. Bryan's views including those of anti-preparedness and warning of armed ship passengers, was invited, but declined on the ground that he had an engagement.

Mr. Kitchin spent the greater part of the morning in conference with Representative Shackelford, the unofficial leader of the warning resolution advocates.

Republican congressmen, led by representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, became aggressive today in advocating speedy action to table the McLeMore warning resolution and all others pertaining to the subject.

Representative Gardner told Representative Pou, acting chairman of the Rules Committee, that the attitude of many Republican members toward the warning issue had been misrepresented.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, March 6. — Colonel E. M. House, who returned yesterday from Europe, is understood to have told President Wilson today that he found no more prospects for peace during his recent visit to the capitals of the belligerent nations than he did on his visit last spring.

Colonel House refused to discuss questions concerning diplomatic controversies, and said those in Washington know more about the armed ship question than he did.

Colonel House arrived here this morning from New York.

THE PRESIDENT APPEALS DIRECT TO REPUBLICANS

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, March 6. — An appeal was made directly to Representatives Bennett and Lenroot, Republican members of the House Rules Committee, by President Wilson today, to consider the armed ship issue without partisan bias and assist in getting a vote on a resolution warning Americans off armed ships.

The President discussed the situation an hour with the two members of the House.

After the conference, Mr. Lenroot said the Republicans had no intention of bringing party considerations into the issue.

He and Mr. Bennett left the White House to attend a meeting of the Rules Committee.

SEA HAWK REACHES HOME PORT

Storm of Enthusiasm Greeted Announcement at Berlin.

Berlin, March 4.—A storm of enthusiasm, such as has been equalled only in the case of the Emden, greeted an announcement of the admiralty that the now equally famous Moewe, the German raider, which since the beginning of the year has held mysterious sway on the high seas, notably in mid-Atlantic, arrived "in a German port." She brought with her, according to the announcement, 1,000,000 marks in gold bars and 402 prisoners, taken from a total number of fifteen allied vessels. With the exception of one French and one Belgian, all are British, aggregating a tonnage of nearly 60,000 tons. Of these fifteen vessels the majority were sunk, the admiralty says, while "a small part were sent as prizes to neutral ports."

The Moewe has been also engaged on her "successful cruise lasting several months," in sowing mines along what is described as "the enemy coast." It was one of the Moewe's mines, the admiralty avers, which caused the sinking on Jan. 9 last of the British dreadnaught Edward VII., from which everyone of the 777 men aboard was saved by British rescue vessels.

STANDING PAT ON THE ORDER

(By American Press)

Berlin, March 6.—The news of the United States senate's action in tabling the Gore resolution was received calmly in official and other circles here. Opinions are divided as to whether or not this preliminary outcome of the discussion in the American senate is favorable to Germany.

It is asserted in Berlin official circles that Germany can not accept what is termed "a new term" reading "attack in self-defense." It is argued that such an attack is just as much a departure from the existing international law as would be, in the opinion of President Wilson, a warning of American citizens not to use armed merchantmen. It is pointed out that Great Britain gave the American government explicit assurances that British vessels were and would be "armed for defense only," and would never attack.

A number of cases are mentioned by officials here where captains of armed vessels were punished by the British admiralty for not attacking submarines. Officials of the foreign office profess confidence in what they call "the common sense of the American people," and count upon it to prevent Americans from jeopardizing their lives on armed merchantmen. The final conclusion as emphasized by German officials after discussing the new situation is that Germany in the circumstances could not deviate from the conditions set forth in her recent manifesto to neutrals announcing the new submarine campaign.

President Wilson is opposed for the Democratic nomination and Vice President Marshall, whose name is on the ticket for renomination, will have no opposition. Indiana will choose thirty delegates.

Paper Shortage

A shortage in the supply of all sorts of paper, as a consequence of the European war is one of the pressing problems of the immediate present.
The nation has suffered from a shortage of several very necessary commodities since the war began. The shortage in certain chemicals, dye stuffs and the like where our supply was known generally to be almost wholly dependent upon imports was foreseen and guarded against, in a measure, by the inventive genius of Americans.
Few people, however, save those directly connected with the manufacture, could see any reason why the interruption of international commerce would effect the supply of paper, until the actual pinch of want, appalling rise in prices, compelled knowledge that the shortage was actually upon us.
There are as many reasons given out for this condition as there are different kinds of paper made and from the best information obtainable the conditions are in no way the result of speculation or combination.
Paper manufacturers cannot obtain rags is one reason given. They can't get the rags because the powder manufacturers have placed large contracts and are offering higher prices. The rags are necessary in the production of gun cotton. And so on down the line.
The men who must have paper and are inclined to rail at conditions might as well bridle their wrath and dig into their pockets to pay the ruinous prices and be thankful if they get any paper at all.

Facts and Speculation

Experts, in their very interesting and convincing way, speculating on the reason for, and the effect of, the tremendous German offensive against Verdun and in the Woivre district, direct attention to some very remarkable facts, some half facts and some speculations and deductions worthy of consideration.
Attention is first directed to the fact, and it is a fact too, that the German offensive of the last two weeks in the western theater of war is the first one, since the war began, which did not have its duplicate and frequently triplicate German offensive on the other fronts. The fact that the Verdun offensive has been accompanied by a lull, so far as offensive fighting is concerned, on every other front, is regarded as significant of serious conditions rather than merely an unimportant coincidence.
Experts deduce from that main fact indications, unmistakable, that the armies of the central powers are deteriorating in numbers and that they are no longer able to conduct two or more offensive movements at the same time. All the world knows that the decimation in the ranks of the Teutonic armies has been frightful, far greater than the allies have suffered, and it may be that the central powers are no longer able to send men to fill the gaps.
If that is true then why the offensive at Verdun is the question which naturally suggests itself to the ordinary man.
Our resourceful experts have two answers for that question. One is that the Emperor of Germany is anxious to secure his son, the Crown Prince, in public esteem, by a spectacularly brilliant and successful campaign, ere the inevitable comes. The other, and the more reasonable, explanation is, that foreseeing an offensive by the allies in the early spring, the Teutons have adopted the very best defensive known to war—an offensive.
It is now asserted, as it was at the beginning of last year, that the allies are ready for the final offensive and that the general movement on all fronts will begin soon after winter breaks.

Best estimates place the number of allied troops surrounding the central powers now, equipped and, for the first time, ready for war, at the staggering total of ten millions.
Having held the central powers in check while this vast army was being mobilized, placed in position and equipped, the number of experts who foresee the tightening of the coils about Germany and Austria-Hungary and the delivery of the final blow next summer, is surprisingly large.
Before permitting ourselves to accept these prophecies as fact, seemingly incontrovertible as they are, we must remember that the central empires, by their wonderful recuperative powers, their almost uncanny resourcefulness in war, have several times before upset the predictions of the wise outsiders.
That Germany and Austria-Hungary have beaten frantically against the steel bars which hold them, is undeniably true; that the great offensive and defensive campaigns they have conducted have been sufficiently costly to exhaust their resources, seems true also, but whether it is or not, the world will not know until the story of death and destruction, to be written the coming summer, is concluded.

FOLKS NEED A LOT OF LOVING.

Folks need a lot of loving in the morning;
The day is all before with cares beset
The cares we know, and those that give no warning;
For love is God's own antidote for fret.

Folks need a lot of loving at the noontime—
In the battle lull the moment snatched away from strife—
Half way between the waking and the noon-time,
While bickering and worryment are rife.

Folks want a lot of loving every night time,
When wearily they take the home for rest—
At slumber-song, and turning out the light time—
Or all the time for loving, that's the best.

Folks want a lot of loving every minute—
The sympathy of others and their smile!
Till life's end, from the moment they begin it, Folks need a lot of loving all the while.
—Strickland Gillian, in Ladies' Home Journal.

SHUN MARKET, HIS WARNING

Said It's Hopeless For Average Man to Expect to Accumulate Big Sum of Money by Stock Dealing—Lawyer's Wise Investment Years Ago Brought a Fortune—Has Never Speculated.

New York.—"It is worse than hopeless for the average man to expect to amass a fortune or to make money by dealing in the stock market."

And yet Samuel Untermeyer, who made the foregoing statement in a letter addressed to the Rev. C. F. Reisner, Grace Methodist Episcopal church, this city, is today some $6,000,000 richer than he was a year ago as the result of the phenomenal rise in the price of Bethlehem Steel stock.

But Mr. Untermeyer has not speculated. Twelve years ago he bought 15,000 shares of stock of the Bethlehem Steel company as an investment. For some of it he paid as little as $25 a share, while none of it, according to the wise-acre in Wall street, cost him more than twice that amount. The same stock today is selling around $450 a share, and Mr. Untermeyer still holds the bulk of the 15,000 shares which he bought originally. He is holding the Francisco owned by the Union Iron works.

Within a few months after the organization of the company it went to smash. At this juncture Mr. Untermeyer was retained by Roland B. Conklin, Max Nathan and certain other bondholders, together owning about $800,000 of the bonds, face value.

On their behalf he began an action in New Jersey for the appointment of a receiver, declaring that the promotion and flotation of the securities was a fraud and that the properties, except the Bethlehem Steel works, had been turned over loaded with debt. A receiver was appointed.

After a couple of years of legal warfare a settlement was reached by which a new company—the present Bethlehem Steel corporation—was formed, with $15,000,000 each of preferred and common stock. The old bondholders received 60 per cent of new common stock and 40 per cent of new preferred stock of the Bethlehem corporation for their bonds.

While Wall street operators have sought to stimulate the bull campaign in the so called "war stocks" by calling attention from time to time to the big war orders received by the various steel, automobile and railway equipment companies, Mr. Untermeyer has traveled about the country telling the public that he favors an embargo on arms and munition.

PROMINENT YOUNG WOMAN
ENDS LIFE IN GREENFIELD

Miss Myra Eutsler, Well Known in This City and County, Where She Has Many Relatives, Sends Bullet Through Heart—No Reason Assigned for Act.

Like a thunder clap from a cloudless sky came the shocking news of the suicide of Miss Myra Eutsler, at the home of her father, Henry Eut-sler, real estate dealer, in Greenfield
early Sunday morning.

Miss Eutsler ended her life by placing a pistol over her heart and pulling the trigger while she was reclining on a davenport in her home. She was dead when her mother reached her side, death having been instantaneous. The ball penetrated her heart.

Miss Eutsler, one of the best known, highly respected and most popular young women in Greenfield, was a niece of Mr. Chas. Sollars of this city, and had a wide circle of relatives in this county. She was well known in Washington where she has made frequent visits.

Saturday night Miss Eutsler attended the meeting of the Fortnightly Club—the leading literary club of Greenfield, and had taken part in the program. Nothing unusual was noticed in her manner.

Upon reaching home she insisted upon sleeping on the davenport down stairs, refusing to retire to her room upstairs as usual. Attributing her desire to a mere whim, the family offered no objection to this.

About seven o'clock Sunday morning while her mother was preparing breakfast, she was startled by the muffled report of a pistol in the adjoining room where Miss Eutsler was supposed to be asleep, and rushing into the room she called to her daughter to ascertain the nature of the noise. There was no response, and a closer inspection in the dim light disclosed the tragedy. Mrs.

Eutsler summoned Mr. Eutsler and the shocking discovery made that their talented and beloved daughter was dead and that death had come by her own hand.

The family and her friends are at a complete loss as to the cause of the tragedy, and can only attribute it to a complete breakdown.

Whether she had planned death before hand, or whether she did it on the spur of the moment in a fit of despondency, is not known. She left no message. The tragedy, it is pointed out, could have been enacted during her sleep, and while she was utterly unconscious of what she was doing. The pistol used was owned by her father and kept about the house.

Miss Eutsler, in addition to being one of the foremost members of the literary and musical organizations of Greenfield, was prominently associated with the M. E. Church of Greenfield, and did a great deal of charity work. She was a graduate of the Ohio Wesleyan University and popular with all who knew her, including a host of friends in this city and county.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, depending upon the arrival of friends from a distance.

him was very agreeable, and they deeply regret that matters over which they have no control, forced the action that he has taken.

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT
VICTIM OF STROKE

Mr. Milton Barrere, well known city mail carrier, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis on his right side
Saturday evening.

Mr. Barrere had apparently been in his usual health, there being no forewarning of the attack.

Monday he was resting comfortably and physicians offer encouragement for his recovery.

Two sons, Mr. Ben Barrere, of Wilmington, and Mr. Ralph Barrere of Xenia, arrived at the home Sunday.

NEAR CENTENARIAN

Mrs. Mary A. DeWeese, widow of the late Thomas H. DeWeese, died at her home on S. Main street, Sunday afternoon at a quarter past two o'clock, at the remarkable age of 93 years and 6 days.

Mrs. DeWeese was one of the oldest residents of Fayette county and besides a wide circle of friends leaves seven children; fourteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral services will be held at the residence at 2 p. m., Tuesday.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Older residents of this city will regret to learn of the death of Mr.
J. B. Norton at his home in Paola,
Kans., Monday night, February 28,
of heart trouble.

Mr. Norton was, when a young man, a Fayette county teacher. Later he was for a short time salesman in Craig Bros. store and connected with the lumber firm of Coffman & Grove. He was held in high esteem in his western home.

PRESS COMMENT ON THE "LAST SUPPER"

Regarding the famous sacred painting, the "Last Supper", which is on exhibition at the High School when lectures will be delivered by Mr. W. H. Leavitt and vocal solos by his gifted wife one of the Zanesville newspapers says:

"Great interest has been aroused the past few days over the bringing to Zanesville of the world-famous picture, "The Last Supper." and the rare opportunity afforded our people of viewing at their leisure an original masterpiece which has been shown throughout the continent, the British Isles and our own land. The artist, W. H. Leavitt, is the only American who has ever devoted his life to sacred art, and his ability is not at all limited to his skill with the brush, for he accompanies his picture in person, delivering a series of exceedingly interesting lectures upon subjects connected with the painting of the picture and the great theme itself."

FOUND—ONE SUIT
OWNER CAN HAVE SAME

Found—one suit of clothes and rain coat. Picked up at B. & O.
shipping pens, now held by the police. Owner can have same by calling and making explanations.

Considerable mystery surrounds the finding of a suit of clothes in the office at the B. & O. shipping pens, and the police are somewhat curious to know to whom they belong and how the suit came to be left in the little office building.

Whether the clothing were cast aside by a burglar who obtained a better suit, or whether they were abandoned for some other reason, is not known.

Parts of the clothing were purchased in this city.

NO MORE OBSTRUCTION
PERMITTED IN ALLEYS

The order issued by Mayor Oster some time ago to clean up alleys and keep them free from obstruction has resulted in quite a lot of cleaning up, but so far only two arrests have been made and fines assessed.

No manure piles, old wagons,
boxes, piles of cinders and ashes which form an obstruction in an alley is to be permitted, and persons noticing such offense are expected to notify the authorities and it will be given attention.

PISH AND GAME MEETING

The Fish & Game Association will meet tonight at 7:30 at the probate judge's office.

LARGE CROWD
CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Last night there was held the first meeting in the series of evangelistic meetings now in progress at the Christian church. The house was full. A large chorus of between thirty and forty singers made the song service a delightful feature.

Mr. Troy, who is directing the music, made a favorable impression on those present, of his ability to lead a large chorus. His solo work is also of a high order.

The pastor took for his text, "In the beginning God." He said that the most significant fact that a person had to meet in life was the fact that there is a God. He emphasized that aside from revelation, man must revel as a creator, law giver, designer and a being that satisfies the deepest longings of the human heart.
In conclusion he said he was a God of love, who had created man in his own image and that he had prepared a future home for him.

The subject tonight will be "The Divine Book."

LARGE MEETINGS
MARK THE CLOSE
AT TABERNACLE

The Sunnyside tabernacle campaign closed Sunday night with one of the largest meetings ever held in this city, the crowd being estimated at close to 2500. The crowd at the Sunday afternoon meeting was almost as large.

The total number to hit the sawdust trail during the meeting was swelled to the original estimate of Evangelist Willhite when he stated that he expected to see the number reach 1000. At the three meetings Saturday night, Sunday afternoon and Sunday night 124 persons came forward, which, added to those formerly reported, makes a grand total of 1003.

The Sunday night meeting was remarkable. After midnight workers were still in the annex praying for some of those who had come forward.
When the great congregation sang,
"God be With You Till We Meet Again," as the night meeting was drawing to a close, Evangelist Willhite pleaded for men and women to come forward for prayers. They commenced to come and for fifteen minutes Willhite took them by the hand. The count was lost, so that the actual number who came forward never will be known, but it was about 100.

Sunday afternoon just as an offering was about to be taken, Mr.
R. C. Peddicord stepped to the platform and presented Evangelist Willhite with a purse of $116, as a token of appreciation of a few of the business men of this city for the great work he has done here. The big audience burst into tremendous applause as the purse was passed over to the hard-working evangelist. A liberal offering was given in the collection.

Evangelist Willhite preached Sunday afternoon and night. Saturday night Dr. W. B. Gage preached.

All the converts are to meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 7 o'clock Tuesday night and march in a body to Grace
M. E. church, where those who desire to unite with that church will be given a reception. The Christian church will be visited in a like manner Wednesday night, the Presbyterian Thursday night, Christian Union
Friday night, and First Baptist Saturday night. Everybody is invited to all of these meetings. There will be some good singing and speaking,
and good will for everybody.

WESLEY CHAPEL MAY BECOME NEW SOCIETY

If the ingathering of new members from the tabernacle meeting is sufficient to warrant the action, Wesley Chapel M. E. church on South Fayette street, may be set apart to itself with a regular pastor in charge, and become a more active center.

Wesley Chapel is owned by the Grace M. E. church society, and those who attend are members of Grace church.

It is expected that several score new members may be added to the church as a result of the recent tabernacle meeting, and sometime in the near future steps may be taken to make the church a separate organization from the mother church. However, nothing definite has yet been decided upon by the official board.

THE SUNNYSIDE
PARENT-TEACHERS

The Sunnyside Parents-Teachers'
Club will meet at the Sunnyside
school building, Tuesday evening, March 7, at seven-thirty o'clock.

A highly interesting program has been prepared and matters of great importance will be discussed.

AGNES KERRIGAN,
Secretary.

CUP PRESENTED
SPLENDID SERVICES

There was a splendid crowd at the First Baptist church for the "bringing home the trophy" services, Sunday morning.

of its basket ball team and of the beautiful cup won for it by strenuous work. The cup was presented to the school filled with lovely spring flowers.

of the team, made the presentation in a very happy little speech, to which Supt. J. H. Hicks responded

by Rev. West, Capt. Earl Peterson, Messrs. Schlach and W. W. Ham-

In Social Circles

The originality and distinctive tone which always mark social affairs at the Jackson home, were markedly in evidence at an exceptionally beautiful and elaborate luncheon given by Mrs. George Jackson and daughter, Miss Emma, Saturday in compliment to their guests, Mrs. Emma Jackson of Indianapolis, Ind., and daughter, Mrs. J. E. Schmidt, of Buhl, Idaho. Mrs. Schmidt's pretty little daughter, Barbara, was also a dear little honor guest.

The approaching St. Patrick's day provided the dominate note of the luncheon and seldom has its fabled lore and vivid green been more effectively employed. In the center of the table daffodils, hyacinths and narcissus rose from a water garden, embedded in smilax, and the emblems and colors of the day were most cleverly introduced in place cards, menu and the courses served. Cleverest of all were the menus, carrying out in six courses, faultlessly served, the viands of "Auld Ireland."

On each menu card headed with the green shamrock and the golden harp, was an Irish anecdote, and their reading by the guests increased the merriment of a most delightful luncheon hour.

The favored guests with the honor guests were Mesdames Ellen Jones, Austin F. Hopkins, H. L. Hadley, Wm. Boynton Gage, J. F. Dennis, Frank M. Fullerton, Bella L. Ustick, Neil Jones, Frank S. Jackson, W. M. Mitchener, Miss Florence Ustick.

Mrs. H. B. Dahl added another charming affair to the series with which she is enlivening the spring season, in a luncheon of artistic appointments and delicious viands, Saturday.

The center of the table was graced by spring flowers in exquisite arrangement. Seated with Mrs. Dahl were:

Mesdames J. T. Tuttle, W. W. Millikan, Frank L. Stutson, Grant Coffman, D. S. Craig, Norton Stutson, Fuller Hess, George H. Hitchcock, Calvin Holmes, Ray Maynard, H. L. Stitt, Bertha S. Miller, W. W. Hamilton, Miss Mary Millikan.

A quiet home wedding took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Mariellen Wigginton, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wigginton, was united in marriage to Mr. Carl F. Jones, only son of Dr. J. F. Jones, of Columbus.

Only the immediate family circle witnessed the ring ceremony per-

The fire damage was confined to the operating booth and the five reels of film and picture machine contained therein; but Mr. Johnson is taking advantage of the enforced suspension of business to entirely rebuild his booth and put in a new front.

The operating booth will be constructed of metal and will be fireproof. The new front will be rebuilt along the most modern lines, with plate glass doors and ticket window, and tickets are to be served out to patrons by a cash registering ticket clipping machine.

While the work is in progress, some improvements are to be made inside the house.

RUN-DOWN WOMEN

We Have a Remedy That Will Cost You Nothing If It Does Not Help You.

Washington Court House women will please realize that we mean just what we say in the above heading. Letters like the following prove the efficiency of Vinol in such cases:—

"For the benefit of the other tired women, I want to say that I keep house for seven in my family. I became run-down, all played out, I did not seem to have any life in me and looked badly. I read so much about Vinol I decided to try it and I must say it helped me in every way. It built me up so I felt like a new woman, and my friends said they could see a great change in me." Mrs. John M. Waldron, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

We recommend Vinol to our customers as the greatest strength creator we know—due to the extractive medicinal elements of fresh cod livers, without oil, combined with peptonate of iron and beef peptone, all dissolved in a pure medicinal wine.

CROWN PRINCE'S ARMIES BALKED

French Check Attempt to Break Their Lines.

HOT FIGHTING AT VERDUN

Operations Narrowed For the Time Being to the Short Sector About the Plateau of Douaumont—Petrograd Reports Activity Along the Entire Russian Front—Fresh Zeppelin Raid On the English Coast.

London, March 6.—A Zeppelin raid took place Sunday night, when two hostile airships crossed over the northeast coast of England. The official statement announcing the raid gives no information as to the damage done.

Paris, March 6.—The French checked another attempt on the part of the Crown Prince's forces to smash the French line near Douaumont, north of Verdun.

Official reports say the French line held and the Germans fell back under heavy fire of the French artillery.

A German force attacked in the wood just north of Vaucouville, but with no more success.

In the contest for the possession of Verdun the operations have narrowed for the time being to the short sector about the plateau of Douaumont. The Germans concentrated their artillery fire on the restricted front between the Hindenburg wood and Douaumont village. The bombardment was very violent. After great quantities of heavy shells had been thrown, the German infantry made its charge at Verdun. The attacking waves at once were brought under the fire of the French guns, with which machine guns and rifle firing co-operated, and were unable to reach the French trenches. At the village of Douaumont itself, where the Germans hold the village proper and the French are entrenched in the southern outskirts, fighting of considerable liveliness occurred without changing the situation.

The German official statement announces the evacuation by the German troops of the trenches captured by them from the French near the forest of Thiaville, northeast of Badonviller, in Lorraine. The evacuation was ordered to avoid unnecessary losses under the concentrated fire of the French artillery.

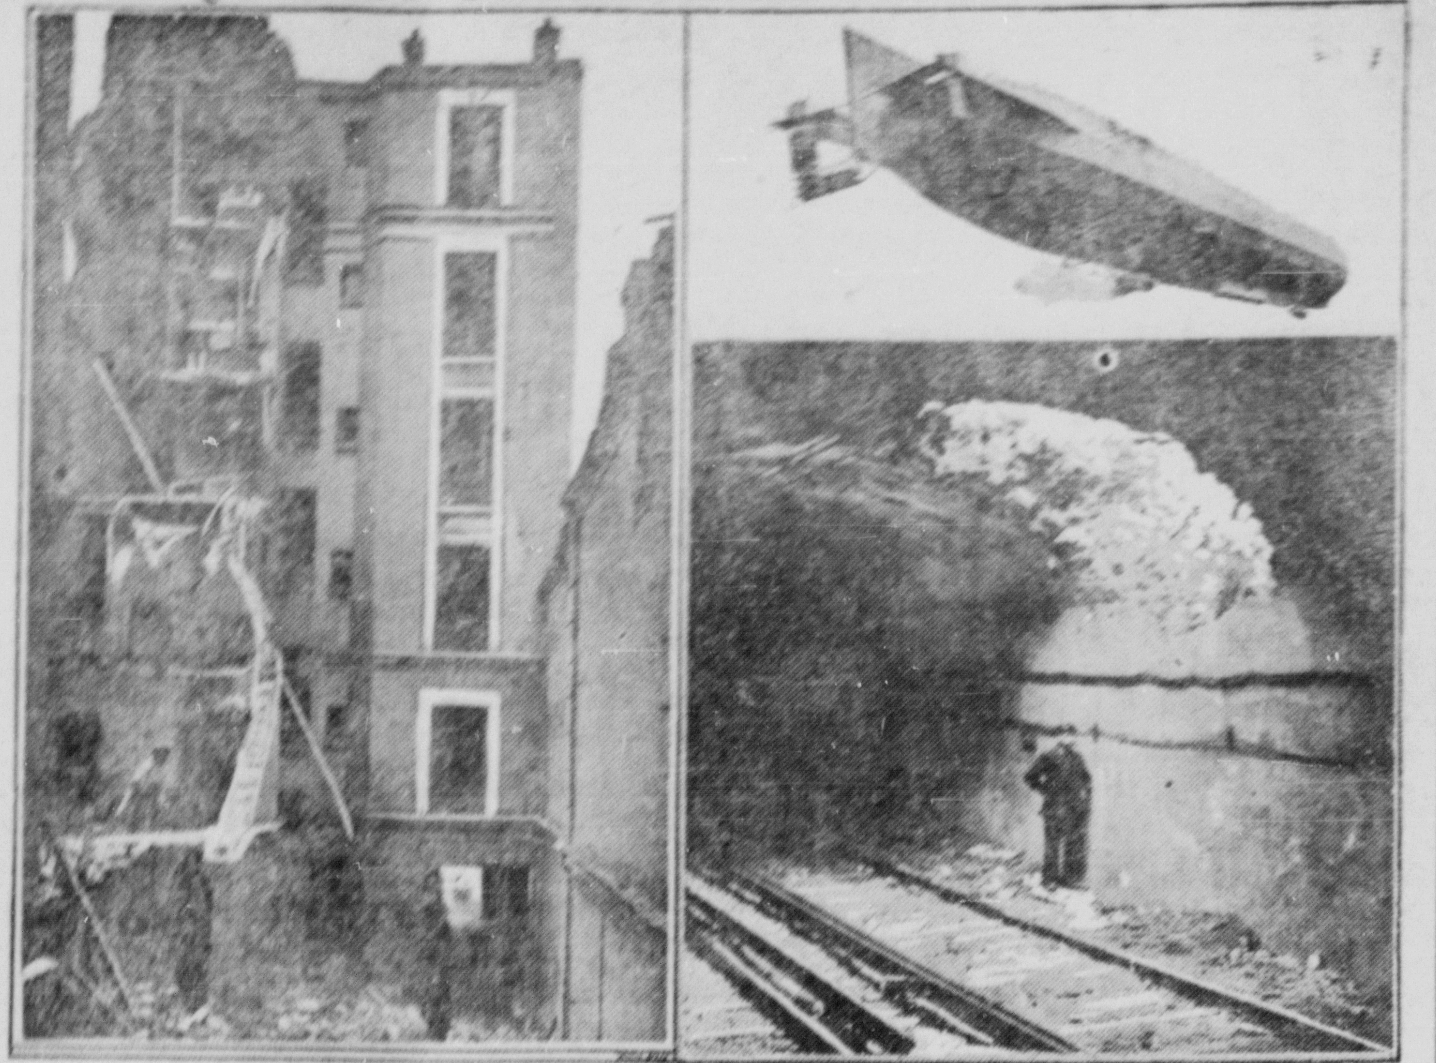

The German artillery continued its firing with intensity on the whole front east of the Meuse and west of the river at Lamorthomme and Cote de l'Elre.

Along the entire Russian front activity has been resumed by both the Russians and the Austro-German troops. The initiative seems to be largely on the side of the czar's forces, though the Germans appear to be preparing an offensive in the region of Baranovitch, an important railroad sector which has seen much fighting throughout the last six months.

Unofficial dispatches from Bucharest report extensive Russian troop movements in Bessarabia. The Cologne Gazette estimates the Russian casualties in the recent fighting near the Bessarabian frontier at 133,000.

There has been another clash between Bulgarian soldiers and Greek frontier guards in the neighborhood of Maelkovo, on the Greco-Bulgarian frontier.

BRYAN AND BAILEY HAVE LUNCH TOGETHER

Congressmen Hear His Side of Armed Ship Issue.

INFLUENCE MAY BE FELT

Luncheon Given by Representative Bailey, an Opponent of the President's Submarine Policy—Prolonged Debate On Armed Vessel Resolutions Feared by Administration Supporters—Await Papers From Berlin.

Washington, March 6.—Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania, one of the opponents of the president in the armed ship controversy, gave a luncheon today in honor of Former Secretary of State William J. Bryan. A number of congressmen who are opposed to the president's foreign policy were present.

At the dinner Mr. Bryan detailed his reasons for supporting pending resolutions warning Americans against travel on the armed ships of belligerents.

Fear was expressed by administration supporters that the desertion of two Democratic members of the rules committee would defeat their purpose to shut off debate in the house on the McLemore resolution, which will come up for consideration tomorrow. This measure, which requests the president to issue a proclamation warning Americans from travel on armed ships, will be tabled if the president's wishes are observed. Administration spokesmen are hopeful of curtailing discussion, feeling that such action would strengthen those who favor standing by the president in this emergency.

Although Majority Leader Kitchin strongly favors the straight warning vote plan, doubt is expressed that he will oppose the administration program on the floor in case of favorable action on it by the rules committee. He frankly admits that the Democratic members of the rules committee have shown no disposition to entertain his suggestion favorably. If he can not obtain the substitution of a straight vote resolution, Mr. Kitchin probably will vote to table the McLemore proposition, on the ground that its form is bad.

Senators Gore, McCumber and Jones purpose to force another vote in the senate on the merits of the submarine issue. The administration does not fear the outcome of such a test, but deprecates the prospect of continued discussion of the question in the senate.

The president and state department officials await with impatience the receipt here of appendices to the German submarine declaration embodying the British secret orders, which direct British merchantmen to attack submarines. This data, forwarded to the United States by Ambassador Gerard, is supposed to have reached New York. On consideration of the so-called "secret orders" by the president and a termination of the trouble in congress, the president will be ready to make response to the German declaration that its submarine commanders will fire without warning on merchantmen armed for offensive operations.

Despite the flare-up in the house administration officials are confident that body will follow the lead of the senate by voting disapproval of any effort in congress to interfere with the president in the conduct of foreign affairs.

WILL SHOW CONVENTIONS

Suffragists to Invade Chicago and St. Louis In Force.

Washington, March 6.—Delegations of women that will far outnumber delegates of the two political parties will attend the Democratic and Republican national conventions, according to announcement at the Washington headquarters of the National American Women's Suffrage association.

The chief purpose behind the move is to secure in each platform of these two parties a plank favoring votes for women. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president, is now in the field devoting her energies to plans for the selection of these delegates. State suffrage organizations representing congressional districts, counties, cities, precincts and every other political unit are co-operating with the national association at every stage.

Mrs. Catt will visit Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin, in the order named. Her itinerary includes nearly every state in the Union.

What promises to be the greatest parade of equal suffrage advocated in the history of the movement is already assured in connection with the Chicago convention and plans for a tremendous showing at the St. Louis convention are also under way.

ILL ADVISED MOVE

(By American Press)

Washington, March 6.—Announcement of the American rights committee to call a mass meeting in New York city in advocacy of American participation in the war on the side of the entente allies created a stir in official circles. A hurried inquiry was made as to the practicability of taking steps to prevent the meeting, but the opinion prevails among government officials that no legal means is open for accomplishing this. Officials said freely that the committee's proposal is in direct violation of the president's neutrality appeal.

J. BULL'S WORK

(By American Press)

New York, March 6.—Cigar manufacturers in Cuba and Porto Rico will be hard hit by the embargo which Great Britain has placed on tobacco importations, to go into effect March 18, according to several large importers in this city. Most of the Cuban and Porto Rican factories will be forced to shut down entirely or run on half time, the tobacco men say. Smokers in London will not suffer from the embargo, however, as there are enough cigars in storage in that city to last for at least six months more. No effect will be felt in the New York market. Some 50,000,000 cigars are shipped annually from Cuba and Porto Rico to London.

FOR FIRST TIME

(By American Press)

Washington, March 6.—For the first time in its history this city is having the experience of a real streetcar strike. Although a few cars were operated by motormen and conductors who had stuck to their posts, the ranks of the streetcar strikers gradually swelled. Efforts are being made by the commissioners of the District of Columbia and officials of the department of labor to bring about arbitration.

The car company officials indicate that they will try to operate the cars at long intervals by strikebreakers. The strikers are demanding more pay, shorter hours and better working conditions.

New York, March 6.—Colonel E. M. House, President Wilson's confidential adviser, arrived here from Europe. He has been abroad for several months on a confidential mission for the president and has held conferences with officials of all the nations at war.

"I have found that the antagonism to America in Europe is by no means so great as has been reported," Colonel House said when asked what he had learned of the standing of the United States abroad.

"Are you satisfied with the results of your mission, Colonel House?" he was asked. "I am satisfied," the envoy replied smiling. The colonel left for Washington on an early train.

FIDDLERS LIGHTEN HEART OF GEORGIA

Old Echoes Heard When Mountaineer Musicians Meet.

MANY ARE MOONSHINERS.

All of Fifty Men Assembled Are Deep Dyed Americans and Are Able to Trace Their Ancestors Back Many Years—Look With Scorn Upon Modern Popular Music.

Atlanta.—The Old Fiddlers of Georgia, first assembled as a clan a year ago, have recently closed their second engagement in this city. The pride of Georgia's heart is in her annual grand opera, and thousands of people congregate in the Auditorium every April to listen to strange music in a strange tongue, and many of them enjoy it "al most as much as they think they do." But the "old fiddlers" really touch the heart.

As a class these musicians represent the mountaineer type, long and limber of body, silent, slow of speech, refined of feature, with quiet gray eyes, hair parted in the back. Their ancestors took the mountains, and the sons have never left the neighborhood. One family live in the same house built by their sire more than a century ago. A great majority of the men are poor. Their fare is simple, their life is bare and hard, and almost the only diversion is from the music of the fiddle or melodeon—that is, if the family be rich enough to invest in a melodeon. The fiddle is often homemade.

When the mountaineer visits or receives visits the fiddle is used as the entertainer, and when the men journey to the county courthouse the instrument is carried along to make music and join in with other fiddlers congregated there, and in the hands of these men, who know no such thing as note or tempo, the fiddle is made to sing for all she's worth.

Inactivity and isolation have not made ambitious men of the mountaineers, and on long sunny days when it's too hot to work in the fields the fiddle is picked up by "pa," for the average mountaineer does not seem to take to master the instrument till he's in the forties. Some of the fiddlers—there are no violins in the convention—are older than the times they play, having been in the family generations, and in one instance the instrument has been handed down to seven sires. The men look with scorn upon modern popular music, ragtime and opera, and nothing interests them except tunes that have been sung or played among them time out of memory.

When the winter is a particularly hard one and everything goes wrong on the little strip of land to make both ends meet, the head of the family finds a use for his corn—almost the only crop he can depend upon—and turns his cabin into a distillery, sometimes running the pipe into the kitchen chimney.

ney to put the revenue officers off the track of smoke. The distiller and law-breaker is found sooner or later, and, with others, plodding slow and weary, he is brought before the federal judge, who gives a word of kindly counsel and a light sentence.

The fifty men assembled are not all moonshiners, however, a small percentage coming from wire grass regions, but all are from the heart of the woods on peak or in dale, far from the roll of locomotive or honk of automobile. All the musicians are Americans. They do not represent the Georgia Cracker from the fact that for centuries they have not mingled in the lowlands. If any enthusiasm on the subject could be raised—which is not probable—the fiddlers could trace their origin straight back hundreds of years to their mother country.

SHAVE BY AUTO LIGHT.

Son Put Machine Where Barber Could Work on His Father.

Clayton, Mo.—Heroic measures were resorted to in order that Frank Tegethoff, a real estate dealer, could be shaved in time to catch a train. Tegethoff had but a short time in which to make the train and rushed into one of Clayton's barber shops and demanded a hasty "once over."

While the barber was engaged in daubing Tegethoff's face with lather the electric lights failed, and the process had to be stopped. It was up to Tegethoff's son, Leo, to supply the light.

He drove his father's automobile on to the sidewalk in front of the shop and stopped in a position which threw the rays of the headlight on to the elder Tegethoff's face, and the shaving operation was completed. Tegethoff caught the train.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME

A STORY OF MOUNTAIN RAILROAD LIFE
by FRANK H. SPEARMAN
AUTHOR OF "WHISPERING SMITH," "THE MOUNTAIN DIVIDE," "STRATEGY OF GREAT RAILROADS," ETC.

NOVELIZED FROM THE MOVING PICTURE PLAY OF THE SAME NAME. PRODUCED BY THE SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION.

SYNOPSIS.
Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad, by George Storm, a newsboy. Crown to young womanhood Helen makes a spectacular rescue of Storm, now a freight train, and of her father and his friends, Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Amos Rhinelander, from a threatened collision between a passenger train and a runaway freight. Safebreakers employed by Rhinelander while stealing General Holmes' survey plans of the cut-off line for the Tidewater, fatally wound General Holmes and escape. Storm and Helen chase the murderers on a light engine and capture them. Spike has hidden the plans and manages to inform Seagrue where they are caught. Her father's estate badly involved by his death, Helen goes to work on the Tidewater. Seagrue helps her to a powder train hauled by Storm's engine. Helen saves Storm from a horrible death. Helen recovers the survey plans from her, finds an accidentally made proof of the survey blue print.

THE FIGHT AT SIGNAL STATION
The operator at Signal station could hardly have been more peacefully engaged than she was at the moment George Storm threw open the office door and paused on the threshold.

"What are you doing over here this morning?" demanded Helen.
"Looking for a job."

"You might take mine," suggested Helen, lifting her eyebrows in a profession of sympathy.

"Whereabouts is that man Rhinelander?" asked Storm lazily. "Hasn't he got some kind of a construction camp around this joint?"

"Why, how stupid of me not to have thought of Uncle Amos myself," exclaimed Helen. "Of course he has. And he's sure to have a job for you."

"He is sure," drawled Storm, "either to have a job for me or the best chance he ever had in his life to get licked—I give him his choice."

"Kind of you," retorted Helen; "he wouldn't mind getting 'licked,' of course, but he is short of men—I happen to know that."

"Maybe I'd better go over and give him a chance to hire me."

"Suppose I go with you."

Helen and Storm found Rhinelander hard at work. It was the first time he had seen Storm since the night on the launch and he greeted his visitors with a hearty laugh. "Licked?" He echoed, after Helen had repeated her companion's threats. "Why, George, I could whip my weight in wildcats this morning. I'll have steel half way up the pass if I can get hold of a few cars of ties this week. And something always happens when I feel this way. I'll tell you right now," he pointed a stubby finger at Storm, "it's up to you, other, and adding them to the regular army and militia forces. Mr. Hay estimates that on the enactment of the house bill there will be at once available for defense 1,324,790 men. Like the senate measure, the house bill provides for the expansion and reorganization of the national guard as a defense force.

The cost of the house committee's plan when carried out is estimated at $141,704,846, an increase of approximately $46,000,000 of the regular army estimates for the fiscal year 1917. The estimated cost of the plan for the first year is $116,000,000 and at the end of the fifth year $137,000,000.

The senate bill retains all of the elements of the administration's army plan prepared by former Secretary Garrison, including the continental army idea, although in altered form, and by additional proposals for organization of industrial reserves in peace times goes even further than the administration and suggested.

Hay Launches Defense Bill In the House.

ENLARGES REGULAR ARMY

Measure Would Gather Up All Men Who Have Served With the Army or Who Have Received Military Training and Add Them to the Regular or Militia Forces—Makes 1,325,000 Men Available.

Washington, March 6.—Representative Hay reported to the house today the first of the national defense bills providing for the increase of the regular army and the expansion of the militia system.

The Hay bill comes in the wake of the measure practically agreed upon by the senate military affairs committee, which was introduced by Senator Chamberlain.

The house bill provides for a regular army with a peace strength of 140,000 men and a war strength of 170,000, an increase of 40,000 men and 7,439 officers. The bill drafted by the senate committee provides for a regular army with a peace strength of 178,000 men and a war footing of 259,000 men.

By providing for the gathering up of all men who have served with the regular army, or who have received military training in one form or an-

VANDERBILT FOR BIG NAVY

St. Louis, March 6.—Freedom of public speech by American naval officers was urged by Cornelius Vanderbilt, chairman of New York City's Committee on National Defense, in an address here Friday before the Convention of Mayors and Mayor's Committees. He said it was vital that the question of national defense should be "lifted above the plane of party politics."

Mr. Vanderbilt, favoring a return by the United States to the position as second naval power, attacked the politics of "the few impractical dreamers whose hopes of disarmament have survived the events of the present war," and pointed to the teachings of the late Captain Alfred T. Mahan that naval defense is America's best reliance. In the planning of a navy, Mr. Vanderbilt emphasized the development of the personnel.
